RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 48 pages. Original publisher: Washington, D. C. : United States Environmental Protection Agency, Office of Water, 2002 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)64685717 Subject: Mercury -- Assaying -- United States. Excerpt: . . . Method 1631, Revision E 5. 1. 2 It is recommended that the laboratory purchase a dilute standard solution of the Hg in this Method. If primary solutions are prepared, they shall be prepared in a hood, and a NIOSH MESA-approved toxic gas respirator shall be worn. 5. 2 This Method does not address all safety issues associated with its use. The laboratory is responsible for maintaining a current file of OSHA regulations for safe handling of the chemicals specified in this Method. OSHA rules require that a reference file of material safety data sheets (MSDSs) must be made available to all personnel involved in these analyses (29 CFR 1917. 28, Appendix E). It also is suggested that the laboratory perform personal hygiene monitoring of each analyst who uses this Method and that the results of this monitoring be made available to the analyst. Personal hygiene monitoring should be performed using OSHA or NIOSH approved personal hygiene monitoring methods. Additional information on laboratory safety can be found in References 16. 11-16. 14. The references and bibliography included in Reference 16. 14 are particularly comprehensive in dealing with the general subject of laboratory safety. Samples suspected to contain concentrations of Hg at g L or higher levels are handled using 5. 3 essentially the same techniques employed in handling radioactive or infectious materials. Well-ventilated, controlled access laboratories are required. Assistance in evaluating the health hazards of particular laboratory conditions may be obtained from certain consulting laboratories and from State Departments of Health or Labor, many...
